3,000 MEN.

Will be In Line In the Labor Day Parade.

The Committee Furnishes the Democrat With the Names of Organizations and Number of Men Who Will Take Part.

The general arrangements committee of the Central Labor Union for Labor Day, consisting of James Mahoney, chairman; O. S. Seever, John Geary, John B. Fitzgerald and Thomas Burns, held another lengthy and busy session in completing arrangements for the great Labor Day parade and the demonstration at Silver Lake park on Monday, Sept. 3.

The committee has completed the greater portion of their work, and it now remains for the many sub-committees to perform their work in carrying out in detail the general committee's plans.

Mr. O. S. Seever, of the Bookbinders, secretary of the Arrangements Committee, has for the past week been in correspondence with several prominent labor workers and speakers, men of national prominence, and the committee will probably decide Wednesday evening who they will select as the Speakers of the Day at Silver Lake.

Among those with whom the secretary has communicated, are:

Mr. Prescott, of Indianapolis, Ind., ex-president of the International Typographical Union.

Wm. A. Taylor of Chicago.

Frank Morrison, of Washington, D. C., secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

Patrick Baker of Detroit, managing editor of the Detroit News.

James Bowman, of Chicago, president of the International Printing Pressmen's Union.

Each of the above are men of national standing in labor circles and are fine speakers.

The public can be assured that one of them will speak at Silver Lake Labor Day.

THE PARADE.

The committee on arrangements have given much time and attention to the parade. Every labor organization in Akron, Barberton and Cuyahoga Falls, which contemplates marching has submitted a list of members who will be in line. This list has been furnished the Democrat and is not a mere guess as to probable numbers. This does not include the members of bands, or individuals in the industrial display of floats by merchants and business men.

The Unions and laboring men who will be in line will represent all the industries in the city that require skilled, intelligent men. They represent the very bone and sinew of the hundreds of industries in this busy manufacturing center. And to these industrial workers everywhere should be given the credit for maintaining fair wages, obtaining a shorter work day and protecting American labor from the depressing influences of trusts.

The Committee on Arrangements, having received a complete list of the Unions to be in line, on Tuesday evening arranged the position of each organization in the various divisions. The Democrat herewith publishes them as arranged, together with the number of

HIDDEN HAND

Delighted Large Audience at Randolph Park—Good Company.

Notwithstanding the bad weather, a packed house last night witnessed "The Hidden Hand" at Randolph park as given by The Selden-Stetson Co. It is a thrilling story, interspersed with comedy. Maud Selden, in the role of Capitola Black, newsboy and heiress, and Mr. Stetson in the black faced character, Wool, were favorites. Maze Barton, with her wonderful baritone voice is certainly a great treat. At the end of the second act she was presented with a bunch of lilies by her admiring friends. Specialties were introduced between acts by other members of the company. The singing of Jane McCollough brought forth much applause.
